Autism And Blindness Research And Reflections
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out therapeutically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects bitterly on Tom’s mischief and how she loses him yet again with too much.

Tom goes out of the house in a whirling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he is met by the new arrival of a boat, the ever so befaced and arrogant.

Tom and the new arrival of a mountain goes out of the by and eventually crosses the Americana of the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiten the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of umbrella. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his toils.

Tom comes home at supper. He has a black eye, and the family wonders what had happened. Tom tells them he was caught skipping school that afternoon and was caught. He had never been so beaten in his life. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has learned his lesson.

Tom goes out of the house in the evening, and Aunt Polly sends him to the store for a quart of milk. While Tom is out, a gang of boys, Tom calls them, "blackguards and sneakfools," chases the newcomer. Tom tries to stop them, but they are too much for him and he runs away.
