The novel opens with Aunt Polly searching the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time to find his mother, Mrs. Sawyer, sitting in the parlor. He tells her about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that he has been skipped school that afternoon and must make up his work. Tom is sad and down, but he is pleased to hear that his collar is still on his coat. Tom’s half-brother, Sid, arrives home from school. Tom sees the chance to deceive his aunt and makes a plan to trick his aunt.

Tom goes out of the house in the evening, seeking adventure. He meets a stranger who tells him about a secret, a place that is dangerous and mysterious. Tom’s curiosity is piqued, and he follows the stranger towards the secret place.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. His pages by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of snowball. His plan is almost executed, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime with his clothes in rags and stories of the adventures he has had. He has been skipped school that afternoon and went on a picnic with some boys. He has been to the woods and seen two bears. Aunt Polly was satisfied, but still, Tom’s half-brother Bundey was there to spread evil. Tom has sworn the child himself to disgrace his house.

Tom goes out of the house in the evening. He starts to play whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he sees a man with a dog and a dog with a blanket and eventually chooses the newcomer as the way home.
