The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and Aunt Polly decides to send him to bed without dinner. When he returned home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his任务.

She has been thinking about the future of the boys in the family and wants them to be well off. Tom’s half-brother, Jerry, is still a minor and Tom is the only one who can support the family. Aunt Polly is pleased to hear that Tom has managed to get a job and eventually clears the apprenticeship of the way home.
